Session 8: Diversity and intersectionality in practice – a panel discussion on workers' experiences

This session was run as a panel discussion and included accounts of personal experiences as a practitioner. For this reason and at the request of the panellists, it was not recorded. If you are interested in discussing the topic further, you could reach out to one of the panellists to ask if they are open to a personal chat.

The panellists were:

- Brodie Evans
- Joyce Broderick
- Namarca Corowa

Stimulus questions

- Were there any barriers or challenges you experienced entering the work?
- Are there any challenges related to your identity and experiences of marginalisation that show up in the work with clients?
- What have you found most helpful from co-workers or supervisors in managing these challenges?
- How does your identity and experiences of marginalisation inform your work?
- What have been the benefits of being a worker in this space with a diverse identity/lived experience?
- What messages do you have for your peers here today?
