Why a managers Forum?

Within the Domestic and Family Violence service sector, SPEAQ holds a unique position as the network whose members are engaged in working directly with men who perpetrate violence towards women, children and other family members.

While operating primarily as a practitioner network, SPEAQ's interests and activity extend to the broader systems, funding, policy and legislative environment in which programs operate. As the only collective voice from the male family violence prevention sector in Qld, SPEAQ has a unique contribution to make to broader efforts to respond to and end DFV. 'Perpetrator programs' are gaining increasing attention in recent times, as part of the solution.

Since 2008, this will be the 6th occasion on which SPEAQ program managers and co-ordinators have come together, the last being in early 2012.

Who Should Attend?

This Forum is open to all program managers, co-ordinators, team leaders and service managers with an interest or involvement in working with men who use abuse and violence in their relationships.

Who is SPEAQ?

Services and Practitioners for the Elimination of Abuse Queensland (SPEAQ), is a state-wide network of member organisations and individuals involved in and with an interest in working with men who have used domestic and family violence.

For over 20 years we have supported each other to strengthen our work in assisting men to end their domestic and family violence and increasing the safety of women and children.
